SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
OFFICE OF THE CLERK
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20543-0001

GUADALUPE F. LOPEZ,
Petitioner,
v. CASE NO. 07-709

ALPHONSO JACKSON,
Secretary Dept. Of Housing
& Urban Development, Date: Jan. 28, 2008

PETITION FOR REHEARING

Petitioner request the U.S. Supreme Court to reconsider denial of petitioner writ of certiorari, which involves a pattern of injustice being practiced in the lower court(s), intentionally ignoring higher court rulings defining credible evidentiary facts supporting a prima facie case, based on lower court(s) knowledge of 1% percent ratio of Supreme Court review of lower court decisions.

Lower Court(s) have become use to prejudicially rendering at their own discretion unfavorable decisions without explaining reasons why plaintiff appeal evidence fell short of establishing his/her case. To knowingly permit such lower court actions to continue, contribute to denial of plaintiff constitutional right to a fair trial by permitting lower court partiality and personal interest to dictate the outcome of a case.

Such is the situation in this case. NO Where did the government produce credible evidence in support of its alleged claim that plaintiff failed to establish a prima facie case which would warrant a decision in favor of the government.

Supreme Court 1% percent rule dose not assure the public that [case(s) appealed] from lower court decisions, adhered to Constitutional law, prior to Supreme Court decision to dismiss any appeal filed under Petition for Writ of Certiorari.

I let the Lord judge my efforts to defend myself, and equally let the Lord judge the Courts actions.
